

Presidents Message

As the founder of PCHARRISCOM I would like to take this opportunity to welcome you to this website and to our company.

This Internet location will offer you a tour of our company, its products and services and our corporate policy and philosophy. We strive to establish healthy working relationships with all our customers. Our desire is to get to know you personally beyond the 'work of work.' We value you as individuals as we also value your business and it is our intention to ensure that we start any arrangement off on the right footing. You will find us open and honest but also warm and sensitive to your needs.

We apply this principle of "communicating effectively" with you first, so that we can extend that communication to the marketplace or target groups you are trying to reach with the maximum effectiveness. This operating policy is embedded in our slogan line PCHARRISCOM "Effective Communications"

Please feel free to contact me personally about any thing you have need to enquire about.

I encourage you to read our corporate outline and I look forward to hearing from you in the near future.

In Communication

P.C.Harris
Founder and President

